As a broad topic, business litigation can encompass nearly any dispute or disagreement affecting any facet of the organization. At Meyner and Landis LLP, we have extensive experience litigating business disputes on behalf of individuals and businesses. We understand the impact that litigation can have on a business, and we strive to resolve the matter in the most efficient, cost-effective manner possible - whether through arbitration or traditional courtroom litigation.

Our aggressive approach to litigating business-related claims has resulted in several noteworthy victories. Not only do our clients recognize the benefits from our representation, but many of our adversaries have hired us to represent them in their own disputes.
