The Commercial Litigation Group of Meyner and Landis LLP handles a wide variety of construction disputes in both the private and public sector. We represent owners/developers, general contractors, construction managers, subcontractors, bonding companies, and material suppliers, and provide advice, guidance and litigation support in connection with construction projects. Our attorneys litigate claims involving the scope of work issues, change order claims, defective work claims, contract balance claims, delay claims and recoupment claims among others. Our experience even goes beyond the state and federal courtrooms. We also handle arbitrations, mediations and presentations before dispute resolution boards.
